

East Coast Pedalers go Nautical

May 7th. 2008

A good crowd of us met up at Aldeburgh life boat station where we were given a grand indepth tour of the station. We were even allowed in the cockpit of the vessel (which is not normally done on tours) where other members of our group were horrified when I took the seat behind the controls.

After the tour several of us had a quick blast to Thorpeness and back, followed for a quick pint for a few and a very dodgy kebab for me. Many thanks to Terry for organising a very interesting evening, and good luck in his end to end run of which Aldeburgh life boat is one of the charities benefiting from his sponsors.
